The Monon's Request,

The ordinance introduced into the Council giving the L., N. A. & C. railroad a right of way into the city from the northwest is meet ing with opposition from property-owners along the proposed route. Yesterday a committee of titizens, composed of E. E. Sloan, E. G. Cornelus, J. A. Kurtz, and John Pickens, issued a call for an indignation meeting at the Criminal Court room this evening. The call requests the attendance of all who feel that the building of the road would be detrimental to their interests. The object of the meeting is to formulate a pro-test to be presented to Council. The Council committee on railroads, to which the ordinance was referred, will report against its passage, but it seems willing to grant the company the right to come down the canal-bank, or along the line of the Lake Erie & Western road.

VISITORS FROM FAR NORTH

They Marked Their Route from Minnesota with Protection Argument.

Calls on Gen. Harrison and Delegations Received by Him Yesterday-Stirring Crowd from Fulton and Other Counties.

General Harrison's receptions yesterday opened with a call in the morning, at 11 o'clock, from a delegation of Minnesotans, about twenty-four in number, most of whom came from the Vermillion fron range in lower Minnesota, a hundred miles north of Duluth. They traveled over the Monon route from Chicago, arriving here at 8 A. M., and bringing with them specimens of the Vermillion ores, with the motto, "Protect our wages and we'll buy your provisions," attached to them. These specimens were distribated liberally at all stations on the way from Minnesota, and for General Harrison the visitors brought a solid block of the ore weighing 400 pounds, and inscribed "Vermillion Iron Range-Harrison and Protection."Among the visitors were Dr. Fred Barnett, editor of the Vermillion Iron Journal; Capt. Elisha M arcom, who opened the first mine on the Vermillion range in June, 1884; Messrs. S. F. White, Charles! R. Haines, A. Nichand, Geo. M. Smith and W. H. Cruikshank, of Duluth; John Owens, W. N. Shepard, N. H. Bassett, S. J. Noble, J. E. Bacon, J. B. Noble, Frank Burke, jr., W. H. Wickes, Charles L. White, D. McKinley and Page Norris, of Tower; W. P. James, of Ely, and O. C. Kniall, of Minneapolis. They were cordially received at the Harrison residence and severally introduced to the General by Dr. Barnett, there being no formality connected with the reception. The conversation at once became general, in which Dr. Barnett referred to the product of the Vermillion range as having reached upwards of 400,000 tons last year. He said the expectation was that half a million tons would be shipped in 1888, adding could be confidently counted upon for the Republican caudidates and the protection cause they represented. Captain Marcom, one of the pioneers of the iron industry in the Vermillion section, said that up to the present time about one million tons of Bessemer ores had been taken from the range, and that of the fifteen hundred miners employed the large majority were thoroughly convinced that protection was their salvation. Their average wages now were $2.75 a day, and many of them cleared $5 daily.

Of the value of the product it was said, for purposes of illustration, that a ton of the Bessemer steel made from this ore and converted into watch springs would be worth $365,000, and this statement led to some talk concerning natural products and the work put upon them, General Harrison remarking that the Lord did not give us natural products of the kind referred to without expecting considerable labor to be put upon them, and that he would be glad to see a good Democratic definition of raw materials. During the visit there was considerable discussign of tariff and protective issues, and their importance to the miners and farmers of the Northwest. As showing the importance attached to them and the drift of public sentiment concerning them, the Republican majorities in Congressman Knute Nelson's district were cited, and the prediction made that the Republican majority in that district this year would exceed 15,000.

Before leaving, the members of the delegation were invited to look through the house. They spent a pleasant morning there before leaving for their homes on a night train.

The Indiana Delegations. At noon the Indiana delegations, made up of nearly 1,000 stalwart representatives of Fulton and Marshall counties, with a few delegates from St Joe, put in an appearance, coming in over the Lake Erie & Western road. They were met by the reception committee and marched to Pfafflin's Hall, where General Harrison awaited them. Among them were many prominent citizens of the several counties, inciuding Chairman Henry S. Bitler, Dr. W. S. Shafer, Dr. E. Z. Capell, Arthur Howard and Sam Heftly, of Fulton county, and J. W. Sider, Ed McCoy, M. S. Smith and others of Marshall. The Fulton people brought with them the Rochester G. A. R. Band, an excellent musical organization, and the Marshall county folks had the Miller Band, including two young ladies. Olive Keyser and Florence Miller, of Plymouth, who played brass instruments and attracted considerable attention in the procession.

At the hall the Fulton delegation was introduced by Mr. M. L. Essick, an effective speaker, who assured General Harrison that the Repu b cause he represented and were earnestly at work. H. G. Thayer, a clean out citizen of Marshall, followed with a like message from that county. eliciting three hearty cheers from the audience which packed the long room when he closed by introducing General Harrison as the next President of the United States. The latter seemed thoroughly pleased with the cordiality manifested by the crowd, and at the outset expressed his gratification at being able to address a distinctive Indiana delegation. He said:

"My Indiana Friends—This is a home company to-day. Usually our Indiana visitors have met here delegations from other States. I am sure you will understand that I place a special value upon these evidences of the interest Indiana Republicans are taking in the campaign. Whatever the fate of the battle may be elsewhere it is always a source of paids to the campaign. where, it is always a source of pride to the soldier and to his leader that the part of the line confided to their care held fast. [Applause.] I feel that I ought also to acknowledge the friend-liness and co-operation which has been already extended to us in this campaign by many who have differed with us heretofore. [Applause.] It is encouraging to hear that the prosperous and intelligent farmers of Marshall and Fulton counties have not been misled by the attempt to separate the agricultural vote from the vote of the shops. It has seemed to me that the Mills bill was framed for the purpose of driving from the protection column the agricultural voters. Not by showing them favor, but the reverseby placing agricultural products on the free list, thus withdrawing from the farmer the direct benefits he is receiving from our tariff laws as affecting the products of his labor, hoping that the farmers might then be relied upon to pull down the rest of the structure. I am glad to believe that we have in Indiana a class of farmers too intelligent to be eaught by these unfriendly and fallacious propositions. [Applause. "I had to-day a visit from twenty or more gentlemen who came from the town of Tower, in the most northern part of Minnesota, where, within the last four years, there has been discovered and developed a great deposit of iron ore especially adapted to the manufacture of steel. Within these four years, since these mines were opened, they tell me that about a million tons of ore have been mined and sent to the furnaces. They also mentioned the fact that arrangements are already being made to bring the block coal of Indiana to the mouth of these iron mines, that the work of smelting may be done there. This is a good illustration of the interlocking of interests between widely-separated States of the Union-[applause] - a new market and a larger de-mand for Indiana coal. "The attempt is often made to create the impression that only particular classes of workingmen are benefited by a protective tariff. There can be nothing more untrue. The wages of all labor, labor upon the farm, labor upon our streets, has a direct and essential relation to the scale of wages that is paid to skilled labor. [Applause.] One might as well say that you could bring down the price of a higher grade of cotton cloth without affecting the price of lower grades as to say that you can degrade the price of skilled labor without degradng the wages of unskilled labor. [Applause.] This attempt to classify and schedule the men who are penefited by a protective tariff is ut-terly deceptive. [Applause.] The benefits are felt by all classes of our people—by the farmer as well as by the workmen in our mills, by the man who works on the street as well as by the skilled laborer who works in the mill, by the women in the household, and by the children who are now in the schools and might otherwise be in the mills. [Applause.] It is a policy broad enough to embrace within the scope of its beneficent influence all our population. [Ap-to meet any of you personally who desire to speak to me." [Applause.]

At the close of General Harrison's remarks the sudience, which included a good many ladies, came forward and were presented individually to the Republican presidential candidate, and after the handshaking ended the visitors spent the remainder of the day visiting points of interest about the city, returning home on the evening train.

Receptions to Come. There will be no public reception by Gen. Harrison to-day, but to-morrow delegations from Grand Rapids, Mich., and Seneca county, Ohio, are expected; and on Friday the Fountain county people, who were erroneously put down for a visit last week, will put in an appearance. Saturday will close this week's list with a visit from Hyde Park and Pullman, Ill., people. The Chicago Blaine Club, and the Chicago Union Veteran Club and Veteran Union League are also expected on that day. The latter organizations are planning a big demonstration, most of the details of which have been published. A letter received yesterday says the train which conveys them and which will stop at several stations for speech-making purposes, will have attached to it a flat car, on which will be built a minature fort, complete in all its details. Inside this fort will be a six-pound Rodman rifle from "D" battery, I. N. G., Chicago. The piece will be manned by artillerymen from this famous battery, and will waken the echoes of every hamlet and village through which the train passes. The stars and stripes will float from the turrets. The fort will be on exhibition in Chicago, on Thursday and Friday, and will arrive in Indianapolis Saturday, about 5:30 P. M. The artillerymen will fire 100 rounds on their arrival, after which the fort will be on exhibition till Sunday noon. It will be under the care of First Sergeant Austin, of "D" battery, and a general invitation is extended to Indianapolis people to call and see Fort Harrison. There will also be, on another flat-car, a large log cabin, with a coon on the roof, a barrel of hard eider in the front yard, and a live American eagle on a perch. In addition to these visitors, Sidney S. Surby, of this city, has received a letter from friends in Stark county, Ohio, stating that the 1840 voters of that county, to the number of 500, will shortly call on General

A NOTABLE WEDDING.

Miss Kate Gresham United in Marriage with Mr. W. H. Andrews. Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

CHICAGO, Oct. 2.—The unpleasant weather

outside but made more delightful, by contrast, the interior of the Fourth Presbyterian Church, to-night, when Miss Kate Gresham, daughter of Judge Gresham, was united in marriage with Mr. William Henry Andrews. At 7:30 o'clock, the hour set for the ceremony, the church was comfortably filled, only the more intimate friends of the Judge and his family being invited. At the appointed hour the organ, which all along had been playing softly, swelled out into the bridal song from "Lohengrin," and the wedding party made its appearance. After the six ushers walked Miss Gresham, leaning on the arm of her father, charmingly attired in a costume of brocaded satin, cut en traine, with a veil of duchesse lace, and carrying a bouquet of lilies of the valley. Both she and the groom were unattended. At the altar they were met by the groom and the Rev. Mr. Wolseley Striver, pastor of the church, and the service was proceeded with. As they were pronounced man and wife the organ crashed out into Mendelssohn's Wedding March, and Mr. and Mrs. Andrews turned and faced the world together. As they led the line up the aisle, Mrs. Gresham arose from the front seat she had occupied and followed them on her husband's arm. The wedding party was at once driven to the Palmer House, where a wedding dinner was served at 8 o'clock in Judge Gresham's apartments. Only the family, the ushers and some friends from Indianapolis-Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Fairbanks and Mrs. and Mrs. A. C. Harris-being present. At 10 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Andrews left for the East, where they will visit, among other places, Mr. Andrews's old home at Boston. They will be at home to their friends at the Palmer House, Nov. 13 and 20. A number of valuable and beautiful presents were received. Mr. Andrews is a member of the wholesale paint and oil firm of Wadsworth, Howland & Co., on Wabash avenue. Among the guests were the following: Judge Drummond, who preceded Judge Gresham on the United States bench; the Hon. Robert T. Lincoln, Judge and Mrs. Dent, Judge and Mrs. Barnum, Jesse Spalding, Potter Palmer, George M. Pullman General and Mrs. McNuita, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Swett, Jesse Dean, Colonel Huptingdon W. Jackson Mrs. A. C. Harris, of Indianapolis.

PATTERSON-PURDY. Special to the Indianapolis Journal Mattoon, Oct. 2-N. B. YOUNG CHRISTIAN WORKERS

State Convention of Those Who Actively Push the Interests of the Churches.

The Societies of Christian Endeavor Increasing Rapidly Throughout Indiana-Addresses and the Business Transacted.

There was a good attendance of young people at the Y. M. C. A. Hall, yesterday afternoon and evening, on the occasion of the first annual convention of the societies of Christian Endeavor of this Stave, which is to continue through to-day. Rev. J. C. Cromer, of Michigan City, presided.

After devotional axercises, conducted by Rev. C. H. Rogers, of Michigan City, and some stirring music, Miss Bettie M. Wishard, the secretary, gave a report of the preliminary organization of the State society, as made in Chicago, in July last, at the conclusion of the national convention of Y. P. C. E. societies. At that time officers were elected and a constitution adopted. The principal object of the society was announced to be that of stimulating the efficiency of the societies of yours people as a factor in Christian life and church work. After the temporary organization then, efforts were made to establish Endeavor societies all over the State, and, as a result, there are at present 42 societies in the State, with a total membership of 2,326, counting 572 associate members. Only 12 of these societies existed before the preliminary organization. The society at Mishawaka is the oldest in the State, ha ving been established Nov. 22, 1885.

The president then called a list of societia's and asked for the name of at least one delegata; from each who should be empowered to vote for that society, although the societies were entitled to one delegate for every twenty-five members. This roll-call developed the fact that there were a number of societies which had been unknown to the State secretary. The result of the call was as follows:

Bloomington, J. Ehny; Delphi, no delegate; Elkhart, no delegate; Ft. Wayne, W. A. Conover; Granger, no delegate; Goshen, Mrs. Sadie Sims, Miss Wilden; Greencastle, Miss Goulding; Princeton, Anna Humphrey, Rushville, Mrs. McCoy, Miss Bodeen; Humphrey; Rushville, Mrs. McCoy, Miss Bodeen; Connersville, P. H. Martin; Crawfordsville, Mrs. J. Connersville, P. H. Martin; Crawfordsville, Mrs. J. P. Walter, Misses May and Eva Buford, Miss Minnie Austin; Greensburg, Rev. E. B. Rawle; Muncie, Rev. Geo. A. Little; La Porte, Miss Crane; Lebanon, no delegates; Mich gan City, Nora Hager, Lena Gould, Albert Miller; Mishawaka, Wm. Goshen; Richmond; Mr. Madly, Evaly: Sinyder; South Bend, Ella Maguire, Minnie Brown, Anna Stanfield, Grace Eccieson, M. M. Snyder; Terre Haute, Rev. A. W. Conner; Vincennes, Mabel Buck, Rev. T. S. Scott; Indianapolis, First Presbyterian Church, Misses Cochran, Nichols and Jones Second Presbyterian Church, Messrs, Hendrickson and Kelsey, Misses Remeier, Robinson and Phillips; Tabernacle, Mr. Moore, Misses Ande, son and Keene; Fourth Church, Miss Somerville; Se venth Church, Tabernacle, Mr. Moore, Misses Ande. son and Keene; Fourth Church, Miss Somerville; Se venth Church, Harry Adams, Misses Rosebrock and Whitset: Memorial, J. A. Williamson, Lewis Howe, Misses Howe and Birch; Central Christian, Kittie Grayson: First Baptist, Mr. Helm, Misses Maxwell and Carroll; Meridian-street, Leah Fletcher; Mayflower Congregational, H. L. Whitehead; Hall-place M. M., Stella Smith; Irvington M. E., Nellie Krumine; Southstreet, Baptist, Miss Selby; Evansville, W. J. Lewis, Maggie Hibbard, Mamie Archer, J. N. McCoy, Emile Orr, Mattie Orr, Effie Myers, Laura Stocks, George Vaughn, E. G. Lewis, Annie Nexsell.

The appointment of committees was deferred, and after devotional exercises the convention adjourned until evening. The ball was almost filled in the evening. A large number of young people arose and gave brief and touching testimonies of their experience in Christian religion. Then, after two or three songs, called for by the president, Rev. M. L. Haines, of the First Presbyterian Church, of this city, delivered the address of welcome to the delegates. In the course of his address he said: "We are gathered here to enjoy a Christian feast of reason, and a Christian flow of the soul. Upon behalf of the one thousand or so of members of Christian Endeavor societies in this city, I throw wide open the door, and from my heart of hearts bid you welcome. I am glad that you have met with us, for your own sake, and more so for our own sake." The speaker expressed the heartiest sympathy for th. Y. P. S. C. E., and thought that no pastor would criticise it who had experience in the matter. If a Christian Eudeavor society ever got out of harmony with the church it thereby ceased to be a Christian Endeavor society. The young men and women who became members of the societies "meant business," else they would not take the rigid pledge which was required of them to become members. The Doctor created some amusement by saying it had occurred to him that the Y. P. S. C. E. furnished the best solution to that great question, "What shall be done with the surplus?" In this instance, however, he referred to the great sur-plus of energy and talent lying idle in the

Rev. Mr. Cramer, the State president, made an appropriate and eloquent response to Dr. Haines's welcome. He compared the visiting delegates to the people of Israel, who were "unused to the ways of the world, and yet at heart honest." He thought that they, notwithstanding the embarrassment which was naturally attendant upon a visit to the city containing the candidate of a great political party, would possess sufficient enthusiasm to throw aside restraint. Indeed, one of the chief characteristics of the Y. P. S. C. E. was enthusiasm. He thought that great work might be expected of this army of young Christian workers, who, at the time when Christians are usually expected to do active work in the church, would have acquired experience and enthusiasm that would prove of mestimable value. He thought one of the effects of the organization would be "less tight-tongued deacous in the church, and less death-chilling pauses in the prayer-mee ting."

Rev. Dr. Gilbert, who is generally called upon wherever the interests or work of the young people is being discussed, made the concluding address of the evening. He resited Desides address of the evening. He recited David's charge to Solomon, when to the latter was turn ed over the immense possessions administered by the former: "Of the gold and the silver and the brass and the iron there is no number; arise now, therefore, and be doing, and the Lord, thy God, be with thee." It was an immense patrimony thus handed over to young Solomon, but no greater than is given to every young man today in the way of centuries of Christian teachings and humanitarian obligations. Every op-portunity begot an obligation, and there was never a day when young men and women had so many opportunities in the way of the ministry. teaching the young in the Sunday school and general Christian work. Only one-tenth of those in this State between eight and fifteen years were Christians, and there were more young men in the saloous on Sunday than in

At the conclusion of Dr. Gilbert's address President Cramer announced the following com-
